FLIERS TEN HOURS AHEAD OF RECORD

Aviators Scorn Sleep in Drive To Shatter 'Round World Record Set by Post and Gatty.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER. BERLIN, July 6.—(AP)—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, two young Americans who are itching to girdle the globe by air faster than anyone ever has, brought their red, white and blue monoplane down at Tempelhof airport this afternoon after a record-breaking trans-Atlantic crossing. Three hours and twenty minutes later they roared into the air again, en route to Moscow. They were 10 hours and 43 minutes ahead of Willy Post and Harold Gatty, the American airmen whose round-the-world time of a little more than eight and one-half days they are trying to beat, when they started along the brightly lighted flying route toward Koenigsberg. They wouldn't waste time to telephone to friends in New York and they spurned sleep. "Tired? Not a bit of it," said Mattern, when they landed here at 5:40 p.m. (11:40 a.m. E. S. T.). "What we need is a good long drink of water," said Griffin. But they had properly hefty steaks to sustain them before they hit the air again. When they took off for Moscow at 9 p.m. (3 p.m. E. S. T.) they faced a hop of 950 miles. The sun already had set. Ahead lay a good though not a great, hope for this week-end, said Mattern in a message sent to his wife back home just before the beginning of the Moscow leg of the flight. "Why, they'll reach Moscow in no time with the weather as it is and the worst of the leg of the journey," predicted Hermann Koehl, friend of Mattern and veteran of the Bremen air

Rout of 'Depression' Celebrated in Early

BLAKELY, Ga., July 6.—With a 30-piece brass band playing "Goodbye King Cotton, Hello Corn, Hogs and Cattle," Early county today staged a celebration and carnival that signified the passing of the "depression," in so far as this county is concerned. The event was held in honor of the big food crops raised here this year, assuring every resident of the county of sufficient food until next harvest time, regardless of the receipt of money crops. Eight thousand visitors were entertained. There was a barbecue, singing convention, a double-header baseball game, balloon ascension, greased-pig race, tomato race and a big parade. Chairman John Underwood, astride a Shetland pony, rode through the crowds, announcing "the depression is over and happy days are here again."

WGST Given Right To Increase Power

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The federal radio commission announced today that station WGST of the Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, had been granted a modification of its license to increase the station power to 500 watts both day and night. It also was announced that the Toccoa Falls broadcast company, WTFL of Athens, had voluntarily assigned its license to the Liberty Broadcast Company.

NORRIS DEMANDS U. S. LOANS DATA

Nebraska Urges Publicity On Reconstruction Corporation's Activities.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, today called upon the senate to demand of the Reconstruction Corporation a detailed report on all its loans. Norris introduced a resolution calling for the report. Consideration was deferred. The resolution asks the corporation to report to the senate "a complete and detailed list of all loans, giving the name of the person or corporation, date of maturity, rate of interest and the nature of the security held as collateral." Saying it is impossible even for a member of congress to obtain information concerning the corporation's loans, Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, added "it is as secret as though it were sacrosanct and it's about time we found out whether the organization is being fair to all institutions of the country or whether there are a few institutions in the country that are receiving favors from the administration."

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, told the senate he proposes to offer as an amendment to the resolution a provision that the vice president appoint a committee of five "as a continuing body as long as this congress is in office for a continuing examination and inquiry and check into the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

Haskell Bohn Found After 6-Day Search

MINNEAPOLIS, July 6.—(AP)—Haskell Bohn, 20 years old, son of a St. Paul manufacturer, missing since last Thursday when he was reported seized by two men, was found by deputy sheriffs at a lake resort near here tonight. "Tip," the deputies went to the lake where Bohn was said to have been found unharmed. The development followed reports from Crookston, Minn., that Jack Thompson, alias Roy White, of Tulsa, Okla., had confessed that Bohn was being held at a farm house near Emerson, Minn.

Mrs. Barney Cleared of All Charges In Connection With Lover's Death

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—A jury of ten men and two women found today that Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, 26-year-old daughter of a wealthy brewer, was not guilty of the murder of her lover, who was shot to death in her bixie car after a smart cocktail party May 31. Mrs. Barney reached after one hour and 53 minutes of deliberation, brought to a close England's most sensational murder trial in decades. Mrs. Barney collapsed when she heard it. A short time later she left Old Bailey and went to the home of her father and mother, Sir John and Lady Mullens, in swager Belgrave Square, not far from the little flat in the Mews where Stephen was killed. Her future plans remained unannounced. The jury also acquitted Mrs. Barney on two other charges—one of manslaughter and another of intent to

DEADLOCK HALTS POWERS' PROGRESS ON REPARATIONS

France, Germany Express Pessimism; British Retain Hope or Reaching Agreement Today.

BY MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER. LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 6.—(AP)—The reparations conflict reached a crisis tonight when six-power negotiations, which were started with confident predictions that a final agreement soon would be reached, broke up within 15 minutes. Spokesmen for France and Germany, whose deadlock has made accord difficult, expressed pessimism as the delegates of the six leading powers abandoned for the night their attempt to get together. The British retained their optimism, expressing hope that an agreement would be completed tomorrow. Before the delegates of the six leading powers sat down together tonight for what turned out to be a surprisingly brief session, it had been said that they would stick it out until dawn, if necessary. An official British statement asserted at that time that the French and Germans had arrived at an accord on virtually all points at issue. Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, and Chancellor Franz von Papen, of Germany, refused to yield on the amount of the final settlement and on the political clauses. They will meet alone tomorrow morning. Failure to clinch the accord was attributed to a nervous headache from which Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, was suffering as a result of the strenuous negotiations. It was explained that the prime minister, as a result of the headache, lacked the force needed to push the accord over.

A resolution engaging the powers to keep the peace over a period of years to take no action to upset the European situation was understood to be the principal matter blocking complete agreement. The Germans appeared to have won one most important point. It was reported that the "war guilt" controversy, which has raged since the days of the Versailles treaty, had been composed. The president of the Voltaire society, guilty of that war and justified reparations on that guilt, has been the focal point of German agitation for

BORAH DECLINES DRY NOMINATION

Senator Asks Way Be Left Open To Co-operate With Later Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 6.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah, notified by telephone at Washington tonight that his name had been presented to the prohibition party as a candidate for the presidential nomination, suggested that the party nominate someone else, leaving the way open to co-operate with a greater convention than the one now being held. Former Congressman William Upshaw, of Georgia, asked the Idaho senator to withhold any statement and await the action of a meeting of dry organizations in Washington. Borah was assured that if that meeting took no action on the situation, then the prohibition party would seek another nominee if he did not care to make the race. Borah's name was placed before the convention here tonight as it began selection of a presidential candidate. Earlier the convention had adopted a platform plank declaring for adherence to the World Court, which is determinedly opposed by Borah. The Idaho senator was proposed by Miss Ethel Hublen, of California, who being held at a farm house near Emerson, Minn.

Al Smith To Support Democratic Nominees

Statement Issued by Sharp-Tempered "Warrior" Contains No Mention of Roosevelt or Garner by Name.

BY SIDNEY B. WHIPPLE. NEW YORK, July 6.—(UP)—With house indignation that his regularity should be questioned, Alfred E. Smith today announced he would support "the democratic party" in the November election. Shouse, storm center of the democratic national convention's fight over the permanent chairmanship, also announced today before leaving Chicago for Washington that he would support Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner in the fall campaign. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, was the Smith-Roosevelt candidate for the permanent chairmanship but lost to Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, in a bitter fight on the convention floor. His status in the forthcoming campaign has not been determined as yet. When Smith's attention was called to the fact that his formal statement contained no mention of Franklin D. Roosevelt or John Nance Garner, he smiled and polished surface of his desk and said: "My statement means that I shall support the party, the nominees and the platform."

SENATE BEER VOTE EXPECTED TODAY

House Wets Meanwhile Attempt To Marshal Sentiment For Action.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—A campaign to marshal house sentiment behind a demand for a vote this session on beer for revenue legislation was opened today by republican anti-prohibitionists. Meanwhile, in the senate, the beer forces looked for a vote tomorrow on the Bingham proposal—advanced as a rider" on the home loan bank bill—to legalize 3.2 per cent beer. The beer drive in the house took the form of a plan to petition Speaker Garner and Representative Snell, of New York, the republican leader, for an immediate vote, emphasizing the government's need for the revenue that would be derived. "The petition to the speaker," said Representative Britten, republican, Illinois, "will say, for example, that the speaker should appear before the rules committee and ask that modification of the Volstead act be made in the immediate order of business in the house and that congress should adjourn until a beer for revenue bill is passed." The meeting of the house wet bloc

End to All Factional Feuds Promised by John I. Kelley

Continuing his defense of the state re-organization law and promising, if elected governor, to put an end to factional feuds and alignments, John I. Kelley, assistant attorney-general, Wednesday night injected a new note into the gubernatorial campaign. It was a pledge to work out a co-operative plan between the state and counties for handling convicts. Kelley formally opened the campaign with a radio address in Atlanta Wednesday night. "One of the most serious problems," he said with reference to the convict situation, "confronting the counties of Georgia is the expense of maintaining a chain gang for the detention of misdemeanor convicts. As governor of Georgia," Kelley explained, "it would be my purpose to work out a co-operative plan between the state and the counties whereby the services of these misdemeanor convicts may be used to advantage without the overhead expense incident to the maintenance of various camps in each of the said counties. Kelley pledged himself to promptly veto any appropriation bill passed by the legislature which exceeds the state's revenue and asserted that the public debt should be liquidated as quickly as possible. He advocated setting aside annually a substantial percentage of the state's income to pay the debts. "Something 'Radically Wrong,'" Kelley said, "has been done in Georgia, as shown by the fact that the state is 'radically wrong with Georgia,'" and said that his answer to what the trouble was is that the "people have failed to take a proper interest in state affairs." "The people," he continued, "have been content to leave governmental, financial and economic matters to the hands of those who in many instances have been using the opportunity for the promotion of their own selfish interests. The time has come when every patriotic Georgian must rise up and demand a return of their

SMITH REYNOLDS, HEIR TO MILLIONS, COMMITS SUICIDE

Son of Late Tobacco King Shoots Self to Death in Palatial Home in Winston-Salem.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 6.—(AP)—Smith Reynolds, tobacco fortune heir who packed an airplane trip around the world and two marriages into the last three of his 20 years of life, shot and killed himself today. Leaving Libby Holman, the Broadway musical comedy singer and his bride of a few months in their bedroom at the Reynolds home here, he walked onto an adjoining sleeping porch at 1 a. m. and a moment later a shot rang out and he was found lying there, fatally wounded. There was some doubt for a while in the minds of authorities whether Reynolds, the youngest son of the late R. J. Reynolds, multi-millionaire tobacco manufacturer, fired the shot which took his life intentionally or accidentally. Late today, however, Dr. W. N. Dalton, county coroner, said he was recording the death as a suicide and so far as he was concerned the investigation was closed, although it could be reopened at any time. Miss Holman, who married Reynolds last winter in Hawaii while he was returning from an around-the-world trip by plane and steamer, was prostrated. She remained tonight at the hospital where her husband died, and Dr. W. M. Huston, the family physician, declared no one would be permitted to see her for at least 24 hours. This restriction was necessary because of her condition, he said, and applied to members of the family as well as outsiders. Dr. Johnson, said Mrs. Reynolds knew no more of the shooting than had been told. After being taken to the hospital at the same time her husband was rushed there, she asked where he had been shot. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds entertained at an informal dinner party last night and their guests left the home about midnight. Reynolds asked Al Walker, of Winston-Salem, an intimate friend, to spend the night. Miss Blanche Yeager, of New York, who was visiting Miss Holman, also was in the house. Walker said he was on the first floor and was closing the house when he heard the shot and then heard Miss

President Wants $100,000 To Transport Bonus Army From Capital.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—President Hoover today asked congress to appropriate $100,000 to furnish railroad transportation home for the bonus army. The administration said the fund was to enable Frank T. Hines, the veterans' administrator, to furnish before next July 15 railroad transportation together with subsistence to honorably discharged World War veterans temporarily in the District of Columbia. The expenditures would constitute loans on the veterans' bonus certificates. Capital police today voiced an emphatic "no" in response to a request by the "bonus marchers" army for permission to organize a concentrated parade-handling campaign within the District of Columbia. The request for campaign for funds was based on the contention that the veterans constituted an organized body similar to the Red Cross. Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent, told the veterans' committee that the campaign would be contrary to federal law.

Dancer's Death Plunge Over Niagara Believed Caused by Slurs on Ballet

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Nikolai Semenovoff's motive for suicide concerned himself, but his beloved ballet. The famous Russian dancer, teacher in Cleveland for the past eight years, is believed to have plunged to his death over Niagara falls today. "I am ending my life by suicide because I cannot bear any longer the slander and persecution of the ballet," he wrote in Russian, a 10-page airmail letter, which his friend and one-time master, Michael Fokine, received here yesterday. Fokine quickly dispatched a telegram to his temperamental friend in care of the station agent at Niagara Falls. "Wait my important letter," he pleaded. CHARLES R. CRISP.

CRISP'S CAMPAIGN TO OPEN TUESDAY

Senatorial Candidate Will Speak for Hour Over Station WGST.

Congressman Charles R. Crisp's campaign for the United States senate will be formally opened with an hour's speech over radio station WGST next Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock, central standard time. Judge Crisp will arrive in Atlanta from Washington on Tuesday morning. Headquarters for the Crisp campaign will be established Monday at the Piedmont hotel with W. W. Dykes, of Americus, in charge, and G. Ed Maddox, former state chairman, as co-manager. Miss Emily Woodward, of Vienna, will be in charge of publicity. Congressman Crisp is opposed for the senate seat, vacated at the death of Senator William J. Harris, by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia. Russell formally opened his campaign two weeks ago and will continue it with addresses at Monticello and Friday and at Adel on Saturday of this week. Frank Discussion Promised. In announcing that the Crisp campaign would be opened next Tuesday night, Crisp said he would call attention to the fact that the address will start at 9:15 o'clock, eastern standard time. It will be the longest radio time so far used in the campaign. Dykes also said: "Congressman Crisp is going to discuss national and state matters of vital interest. He will not straddle any questions but will discuss them plainly and fully. Temporary headquarters at Americus have been flooded with letters from the state pleading support, many of them from people not acquainted personally with the veteran congressman but who admire him for his courageous stand and respect his honesty and ability as a statesman."

Talmadge Opens Headquarters

Coinciding with the opening of his campaign headquarters at the Ansley hotel Thursday, Eugene Talmadge, candidate for governor, announced that he would show up "the Siamese twins" as he refers to Holder and Hardwick—in speeches at Statesboro and Clayton on Saturday. Talmadge will speak at Statesboro at 11 o'clock and at Clayton at 3 o'clock. "I am showing the people of Georgia," he said, "how the Siamese twins, Holder and Hardwick, have got a throttle hold on the state highway department and if the people want to hear how this is being pulled I invite them to come to Statesboro. I struck fire in my speech at McRae Monday, Talmadge added, "I am going to hit the same rock harder Saturday."

House Speaker Insists on Provision for Loans to Individuals, While President Assails This Part in Vigorous Language.

VETO THREATENED BY WHITE HOUSE

Democratic Leader Charges Executive Wants Law's Benefits Only for "Select Clientele."

BY CECIL E. DICKSON. WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The highly charged controversy between President Hoover and Speaker Garner burst vigorously into the open today as they exchanged blow for blow in a verbal battle over the $2,122,000,000 relief legislation. Each charged the other with responsibility for failure to reach a compromise on the Garner-Wagner measure. Meanwhile senate and house conferees revised it to meet all the president's objections except one and planned for house action tomorrow. Garner assailed President Hoover in a dramatic speech on the house floor, charging the chief executive with desiring a "select clientele" to reap the benefits of the projected $2,500,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan fund. The speaker urged congress to remove restrictions on any individual with security could borrow. Forecasts Veto. In a formal statement, the president hit back at the democratic vice-presidential nominee, declaring he would not accept the proposal insisted upon by the Texan and forecasting a veto for the relief measure. "That the issue between Garner and the president will be one of those heard throughout the country during the presidential campaign appeared certain. Representative Snell, of New York, the republican leader, answering Garner in the house, quoted the Texan as saying the issue was between the president and congress, and added: "I say, it is not. It is an issue between the president and the democratic vice-presidential nominee. That is the real issue." Principle Involved. Striding up and down the well of the house and directing his speech particularly at the republicans, Garner contended: "There is a principle involved in this and I will not surrender. I will not surrender the principle that we ought to legislate for all the people rather than for a preferential class." Garner said he told the president today at a White House conference

Gov. Roosevelt Is Silent On Smith's Announcement

BY WALTER T. BROWN.
STATE CAPITOL, ALBANY, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today received without comment the news former Governor Smith would "support the democratic party."

The democratic presidential nominee refrained from discussing the Smith statement in New York until he received a complete text. The governor said he would issue a reply to his former political ally, who constituted the biggest obstacle to the Roosevelt nomination.

It is understood that J. J. Shouse, who for three years has been executive chairman of the national committee, would be retained by the organization, which now is under the direction of James A. Farley, manager of the governor's campaign.

SMITH'S DECISION PLEASES LEADERS

Former Nominee's Action Strengthens Prospects for Overwhelming Victory.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—From democrats on Capitol Hill today came a chorus of pleasure at the news Alfred E. Smith would support the party ticket.

Most of them, however, said that the announcement was expected. Some of the staunchest of Roosevelt supporters at the Chicago convention, among them Senator Cohen, of Georgia, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, praised Smith for his expression.

Senator Borah, republican, New Jersey, said: "I am glad to hear that the announcement was expected. Some of the staunchest of Roosevelt supporters at the Chicago convention, among them Senator Cohen, of Georgia, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, praised Smith for his expression."

Senator Bulkeley, democrat, Ohio: "It is no surprise to me. I never doubted that Al Smith would support the party. He is a good democrat and always has been."

Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana: "That is a very fine expression and one that is worthy of the man. There was never any question about Al Smith's democracy."

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York: "What is expected. He is a loyal member of the party. He made his fight. He got licked and now he'll stand by."

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, said: "I am glad to hear that the announcement was expected. Some of the staunchest of Roosevelt supporters at the Chicago convention, among them Senator Cohen, of Georgia, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, praised Smith for his expression."

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and vice president of the convention, said: "I am glad to hear that the announcement was expected. Some of the staunchest of Roosevelt supporters at the Chicago convention, among them Senator Cohen, of Georgia, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, praised Smith for his expression."

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, said: "I am glad to hear that the announcement was expected. Some of the staunchest of Roosevelt supporters at the Chicago convention, among them Senator Cohen, of Georgia, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, praised Smith for his expression."

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who recently announced his support of Governor Roosevelt: "I have nothing to say."

Senator Stephens, democrat, Mississippi: "That's fine and is very gratifying information. It is really what I had expected."

Representative Byrns, democrat, Tennessee: "I am very much gratified but it is no more than I expected."

Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut: "Al is a good sport and a good democrat."

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio: "His statement is perfectly satisfactory to me."

Representative Rainey, the democratic leader: "It is the utterance of a real democrat. It makes doubly sure the victory already in sight."

Representative McDuffie, the democratic whip: "I had no doubt from beginning that Governor Smith, recognizing the honor the party had given him, would support the democratic ticket. I am in no way surprised. I've always believed he was good sport enough to support the ticket."

Operator Held. MIAMI, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—Jack Kirk, filling station operator, was arrested today on warrants charging him with manslaughter and reckless driving in connection with the fatal injury Friday of Garland Ellis and Veston Anderson in an automobile-motorcycle accident.

'Inside Story' of Roosevelt Air Trip Reveals Governor Originated Plan

ALBANY, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt's airplane trip to the democratic convention to accept the presidential nomination was his own idea.

It was carried out despite the objections of most of his personal advisers, including Louis M. Howe, who for almost 20 years has been Mr. Roosevelt's consultant on personal as well as political matters.

Several months ago the governor considered visiting in Chicago during the convention but finally abandoned the idea unless he was nominated. He then decided to take a plane so as to avoid delaying the proceedings of the convention.

On the night before he was nominated and during the day of the nomination, when it appeared he would go over on the fourth ballot, Howe, Henry Morgenthau Jr. and his son-in-law, Curtis Dall, tried to dissuade him. They told him there was a sentiment against him among the leaders in the Roosevelt camp. Fear for his safety was one of the arguments used with the governor.

Mr. Roosevelt finally agreed to take a train if that would get him there in time but would fly if that mode of transportation was more expeditious. As the nomination came at night after the last train that would reach Chicago during daylight on the following day had left Albany it was necessary to go by plane.

In addition to his desire to avoid the expense of bringing a delegation to Albany for a notification ceremony, some of the Roosevelt group believed his personal appearance at the convention would vindicate his physical capacity. The governor's physical handicap, a retardation of his ability to walk without aid, had been a factor in the consideration of his nomination.

Mr. Roosevelt and several of his advisers also believed that his personal appearance and a speech outlining his governmental doctrine would get the campaign away to a "flying start" and tend to heal the wounds that had been inflicted in the spirited nomination fight.

Mr. Roosevelt made many airplane trips during the World War when he was assistant secretary of the navy, but he had not been in a plane since he gave up the navy post.

It was impossible for me to reply to them individually. "Most of the suggestions urge the organization of an independent political party. These come from people dissatisfied with the conventions of both parties. To them I say it is not practical. And he should not start a third party at this time, as it would simply register a negative vote which would accomplish nothing for the people in the employment of many men."

Republican Record. "We are living under a system of two major political parties. The parties are not perfect, but they are the necessary check and audit upon the party in power. The question before us today for decision is, shall the record of the past 12 years of republican administration be approved at the polls in November? As far as I am concerned, I am totally dissatisfied with the record and shall do nothing to lend it countenance. I shall therefore support the democratic party."

The statement was notable for its omission of any reference to the support of the democratic nominees as an excellent choice. He would not "lend countenance" to the republican administration, and he would not support the party a personal affair—to be followed or not by his own supporters, as they choose.

ELY APPROVES STAND. BOSTON, July 6.—(AP)—Governor Joseph B. Ely and Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, leaders, respectively, of the Massachusetts forces of Al Smith and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, tonight gave their approval to Smith's announcement that he would support the democratic party.

Governor Ely disclosed that Smith had discussed the statement with him when he said: "I talked with former Governor Smith today and he read the statement to me. I think it was the proper statement for him to make in the national convention."

Mayor Curley, who labored for Roosevelt in the recent convention as a delegate from Puerto Rico, although he had been defeated for a delegate's place in Massachusetts, said the Smith announcement "in favor of the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt must be the friends of both men."

"One of the most distressing features in connection with the campaign," Curley said, "was the possibility of an estrangement between two men who had been so closely allied for more than a quarter of a century."

"I am glad to hear that the announcement was expected. Some of the staunchest of Roosevelt supporters at the Chicago convention, among them Senator Cohen, of Georgia, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, praised Smith for his expression."

FORESTRY PROJECT URGED AS JOB AID

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Ovid Butler, executive secretary of the American Forestry Association, today wrote Secretary Hyde that a national forestry project at this time would provide work for a very large number of men.

Butler was answering a statement by Secretary Hyde yesterday discounting Governor Roosevelt's suggestion that a million men could be put to work by a reforestation program.

"It is true," Butler said, "that if reforestation is viewed in the narrow sense of merely planting trees, such a project has its limitations due to insufficiency of nursery stock."

To give the impression that forestry offers only the possibility of tree planting is in the judgment of the American Forestry Association to diminish the subject without fair consideration of the very large and diverse possibilities which the field offers."

He suggested to Secretary Hyde that a broad reforestation program, including the construction of fire-break construction, and other complementary work which would call for the employment of many men."

He said that California had taken 5,000 men from the breadlines to do the type of work and that he had been advised that the necessary check and audit upon the party in power. The question before us today for decision is, shall the record of the past 12 years of republican administration be approved at the polls in November? As far as I am concerned, I am totally dissatisfied with the record and shall do nothing to lend it countenance. I shall therefore support the democratic party."

The statement was notable for its omission of any reference to the support of the democratic nominees as an excellent choice. He would not "lend countenance" to the republican administration, and he would not support the party a personal affair—to be followed or not by his own supporters, as they choose.

HYDE'S FORESTRY STATEMENT FLAYED BY CONGRESSMAN. WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Replying today to Secretary Hyde's attack on Franklin D. Roosevelt's proposal to give employment through reforestation, Chairman Jones, of the house agriculture committee, said "the secretary, as everyone knows, understands more about politics than he does about agriculture."

"Reforestation is a problem which Governor Roosevelt understood," Jones said in a statement issued through the democratic national committee. "He has presented it to the legislatures of his state and to the people of his state, and they have approved his study of the question."

"Farmer Hyde has an apparent idea that reforestation consists of going to a nursery buying a seedling and planting it. He overlooks entirely the great problems of flood control and soil erosion."

"If Secretary Hyde did not hold such a high position in our government, his lack of information expressed in such elementary language—in the thought that reforestation is nothing more than a tree to be planted and waiting for it to grow—would be amusing."

REFORESTATION PLAN OF ROOSEVELT LAUDED. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—William L. Wilson, of Jacksonville, chairman of the industrial committee of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce and a leader in reforestation work in this state, tonight said Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, had "overlooked entirely the great problems of flood control and soil erosion."

"Secretary Hyde's criticisms of our reforestation plans are not founded upon accurate knowledge. One million men could be employed profitably in forest fire prevention work alone. There is no necessity actually to plant seedlings in most forest sections of the country, also no danger of overproduction of forest products."

"We are depleting our forests now and are supplying less than 40 per cent of our own pulp demand; foreign competition is gaining."

"The republican party, though now in power with its vaunted protection policy has not prevented unfair pulp competition from countries which have purposely forsaken gold standard."

"Prevention of soil erosion, climatic stabilization, recreational and esthetic values alone warrant large expenditure for forest protection."

"Your stand well taken and receiving country-wide approval."

Wilson was a Florida member of a group which sought forest protection legislation in Washington some months ago. Other states represented, he said, were New York, Maine, Washington, Oregon, Wisconsin, North Carolina and Georgia.

Amplifying his telegram, Wilson said the Washington group had completed figures showing the prospective employment in a forest protection program. The million men, he said, would be employed in building fire break lines, erecting observation towers and other work incident to a well-developed forest patrol. Upon completion of this work, which would require about one year, he said, the number employed would decrease materially.

Driver of Death Car To Surrender Today. Sought for more than a week as the driver who deliberately swerved his car into a group of merry-makers on Whitford avenue, killing a high school student and injuring a young girl, C. B. Childress Jr., Pullman Company employee, will surrender sometime today, it was announced Wednesday through counsel retained to defend him.

Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole revealed he was notified Wednesday that William Schley Howard, the Childress was on his way to Atlanta and would surrender himself through his attorney to answer charges in connection with the death of Fulton Allen O'Kelley, Teah High student, who was instantly killed, and the injury of Miss Frankie Mae Davis, member of the group at the party.

Eye witnesses to the tragedy told police the driver of the car, later identified as belonging to Childress, deliberately swerved his car into a group of young persons wheeling one another in wheelbarrows.

Roosevelt To Confer On Finances of State. ALBANY, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt tonight invited George W. Wickersham, president of the state economic council, John W. Davis and the heads of the state's leading business organizations to confer with him on the subject of state government.

He called the conference for the afternoon of July 19.

The governor has been giving much attention to the subject of governmental cost since the adjournment of the legislature last spring. It is known he desires to bring it sharply under the figure of recent years, more than $300,000,000, if possible. He must prepare the executive budget for the next year.

crossing of the Atlantic from east to west. Mattern and Griffin were mightily pleased when they landed here, Here's why:

They already had a margin of 2 hours and 55 minutes on Post and Gatty.

No Stops. They had crossed without a stop to Berlin from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in the excellent time of 18 hours and 41 minutes, and they had become the first trans-Atlantic fliers to "hit Berlin on the nose" altogether. (See last column.)

They had made a record of 10 hours and 50 minutes from land to land in their Atlantic flight. Exact comparisons are not possible, but that probably is the best time ever made. It was a trip of thrills and it ended in an excited welcome as the "Century of Progress"—the name they had given their ship—taxied to a halt at Tempelhof.

The plane was quickly inspected by Luftwaffe mechanics, who pronounced it perfect.

But Griffin wasn't that lucky. Motor fumes had been blowing in his face and an eye was badly inflamed.

The airman waited for a physician in one of the airport's dining rooms where they had supper—big steaks, salad and coffee.

Mattern pleased his German hosts by telling them that his father was a doctor. He was a doctor, an oculist arrived and he found that, although Griffin's eye was inflamed, it was perfectly safe for him to continue.

Questioned shortly after the landing here, Mattern explained why he and his partner were not over-tired.

Stand Watches. "We've got double controls," he said, "and we stood regular watch. While I was working Griffin slept, and when he took over, I curled up."

It was 10 hours and 50 minutes on the dot after we left Harbor Grace that we sighted land. We kept on and from there I guess that was Ireland—we got to Berlin in 17 hours, 40 minutes flying time altogether. (See last column.) This apparently is a miscalculation.

"We'd have got here sooner, oh, hours sooner, but we missed the town and veered off to the north. Griffin spotted the name on a little railroad station. I think it was Sölden, and we turned around and came south again."

"For all we saw there might not have been any ocean at all. We were flying blind in fog and, believe it or not, our altitude ran from six inches to 10,000 feet."

"Well, we went south of Scotland, then we hit the North sea. Just where we struck the continent of Europe I don't know."

Eight-Day Mark. The Post and Gatty round-the-world mark at which Mattern and Griffin are shooting is 8 days, 15 hours and 51 minutes. For a time during the afternoon there was apprehension that they had run into serious trouble right off the bat.

The ship was first seen at 4:31 a. m., eastern standard time, flying over Rosapenna, North Donegal, Ireland. The next report came at 8:22 a. m., eastern standard time, when she was seen over Bremen, Germany. At 9:15 p. m., eastern standard time, she was sighted over Hanover. Then there was a wait of almost two and a half hours before she appeared over Tempelhof.

Reports of bad weather increased this apprehension. There was a violent storm in Muenster, 100 miles west of Hanover, and it was accompanied by a wind spout which uprooted trees and unroofed houses.

But all these fears ended when the red, white and blue ship dipped over Tempelhof.

MARATHON DANCERS ON FIFTEENTH DAY. Contestants still remaining in the marathon dance being held at the Palais Peachtree late Wednesday night were reported as "very sleepy" as they entered their fifteenth day of efforts to keep moving 40 minutes out of every hour. The contestants have passed the 365th hour, according to the management and "anything may happen."

Beginning today night admission prices will be reduced to 50 cents which will include the government amusement tax, while morning admission prices continue at 10 cents and afternoon admissions at 25 cents. A special entertainment feature has been arranged for tonight's program, it was announced.

Rector Ill. ROME, July 6.—(AP)—Monsignor James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University of Washington, D. C., was confined to his bed here today with a bronchial attack. He was obliged to request the postponement of an audience with the pope.

Need for Produce Depots Shown by Hamilton Ralls

Establishment Promised by Hogansville Candidate in Campaign Address Before Meeting Here.

Produce depots in every section of Georgia along the lines advocated by the Georgia Bankers' Association, will be one of the principal aims of Hamilton Ralls, of Hogansville, if he wins in the seven-cornered race for commissioner of agriculture.

Ralls, "professional farmer and amateur politician," outlined his campaign platform before more than 200 supporters gathered in Atlanta Wednesday from all parts of Georgia. The meeting, held on the roof of the Ansony hotel, was presided over by Mayor John P. Atkinson, of Greenville, a grandson of former Governor Atkinson.

Nearly two score Hogansville and Troup county supporters of Ralls, whose model 500-acre farm is near Hogansville, were among those in attendance. Those speaking, in addition to Ralls, were W. W. Wells, of Fairburn; Mrs. J. Rander Terrell, of Greenville; Joe McLaughlin, president of the Hogansville Farmers' Club; C. A. Cobb, editor of the Progressive Farmer, and Representative J. C. Roberts, of Columbus.

Favors Licensing of All.
Ralls said that he was opposed to allowing those not producers to sell produce without license or tax in competition with the farmers themselves and in competition with distributors who are licensed, taxed and regulated as well as with railroads who also are licensed, taxed and regulated.

"These men," he said, referring to out-of-state peddlers, "do not have to charge as much for hauling nor sell at as high prices as distributors because they pay no license or tax. Therefore, the tendency of their price-making is downward and without facilities for caring for perishable produce they have made a dumping ground of all our markets. This is neither right nor fair and the result is that the distributor who, under the present scheme of things is the price maker of farm produce, does not know what price to make and we have no price except that made by the peddler who unloads at whatever price he can get."

"When we can get our distributing system in balance again," Ralls said, "I propose, through the bureau of markets, to help develop produce depots in each district in the state along the plan advocated recently by the Georgia Bankers' Association with the hope of finally establishing these farm depots in every county seat town in the state through community organization and help."

Needs Support of Friends.
"In this way," he explained, "I believe the bureau of markets can consolidate small quantities of any products in the various counties for offer to the trade in whatever quantities it might want. I pledge myself to employ the best trained assistants available and to attack this problem of marketing first and stay after it until solved. A proper system of marketing the products of the farmer will bring quick and definite relief."

Ralls promised to enforce regulatory laws with justice and fairness "to all and extend a helping hand to all agencies that are working for the common good."

"If you think I am qualified to be commissioner," he concluded, "I can

New, Scientific Treatment Increases Vital Red Corpuscles, Corrects Digestion, Clears System of Impurities.

The blood is the life of the body, and scientists hail with enthusiasm the recent discovery that copper, in scientific combination with yeast vitamins and iron, possesses astonishing power to increase the vital, health-building red corpuscles of the blood stream. It furnishes a new and wonderful treatment for combating malnutrition, nervous and physical exhaustion, and impoverished, anemic conditions of the blood and tissues.

The new treatment—Thor's Vitamin Compound of yeast vitamins, iron and copper—often accomplishes beneficial results in a few days that formerly took weeks or even months, of tedious treatment.

Thor's Vitamin Compound promotes an increase in the vigorous, disease-resisting red corpuscles of the blood, strengthens and tones the intestinal tract, and enables the system to throw off accumulated impurities that cause a weak, tired-out, nervous condition. Next, it restores the appetite for wholesome, nourishing food which builds firm flesh and tissues. Digestive disturbances, auto-intoxication, malnutrition, constipation, and sleeplessness quickly disappear, and the nervous system is strengthened by nature's own method of improved circulation and increased metabolism. Weak, thin, nervous people usually show a gratifying gain in weight, and a feeling of buoyant health, strength and confidence quickly replaces the former condition of weakness, nervousness and discouragement.

Thor's Vitamin Compound of yeast vitamins, iron and copper may be obtained at all drug stores for only fifty cents, and is sold under the positive guarantee that it will bring a gratifying improvement in health within one week or your money will be cheerfully refunded.—(adv.)

DR. ALBERT RESIGNS AT WESTERN HEIGHTS

Dr. W. M. Albert, for nearly 14 years pastor of the Western Heights Baptist church, tendered his resignation to a meeting of the board of deacons Wednesday night.

The resignation, which is to become effective on the first Sunday of next month, was tabled. It is to be considered at a meeting of the deacons next Wednesday night.

DR. W. M. ALBERT.

Dr. Albert in a letter to members of his congregation said he was leaving because he was not getting the "full co-operation" of members of his church. He did not amplify this statement.

Dr. Albert took up the pastorate at Western Heights in 1918 and during his tenure the membership of the church increased considerably. The church was founded in 1905 as a mission of the First Baptist.

SUPPORT OF FRIENDS SOUGHT BY MAFFETT

Asserting that Mrs. Robert W. Stokely is a member of his district and that Cap Mason will be his assistant if elected, U. G. Maffett, candidate for the post of ordinary of DeKalb county, opposing Vest Morgan, incumbent, Wednesday issued a statement asking for support in the September 14 state primary.

Maffett asserted he is a native-born Georgian, that he is qualified to fill the position. He complimented Mrs. Stokely and cited Captain Mason's record as a locomotive engineer.

WHITE HELD HERE AS COUNTERFEITER

A man booked as Harry White was held here Wednesday while secret service agents continued their investigation of his activities after reporting they found materials and mutilated equipment for manufacturing counterfeit 25-cent coins at his home.

His arrest, the federal officers said, resulted from a tip received Tuesday when John B. White was captured after a chase in Forsyth on complaint of a filling station operator who said a number of the spurious coins had been passed on him in payment for gasoline. Secret service men said they believed Harry White was the manufacturer of the coins while John B. White's job was passing them.

GEM TO INTRODUCE TWO-EDGED BLADE

The American Safety Razor Corporation has increased its factory force 50 per cent in the manufacture of the Gem double-edged blade for use in its new Gem micromatic razor. The plant has been working on an overtime basis for several months past.

Confident that business has touched bottom and is on the way up, the company has authorized a large advertising outlay.

MORE FACE EVICTION IN CAROLINA STRIKE

SPARTANBURG, S. C., July 6.—(AP)—Magistrate John L. Lancaster today held warrants to evict 24 additional families of strikers at the Arcadia mills here from company-owned houses and said he would serve them promptly unless the families moved out voluntarily.

The warrants were issued as a result of eviction proceedings instituted by the mill management. Nine families were ejected from houses in the village last week.

FORMER KING'S RITES TO BE HELD FRIDAY

LONDON, July 6.—(AP)—The funeral of former King Manuel, of Portugal, who died Monday of a heart attack will be held at Westminster cathedral Friday. It was announced today. Burial will be at Weybridge, where other members of the exiled royal family have been interred.

HAWLEY-SMOOT ACT UPHELD AT INSTITUTE

George Eder Says Not More Than 10 Per Cent Decline Caused by Measure.

UNIVERSITY, Va., July 6.—(AP) Denial that the Hawley-Smoot tariff act of 1930 was an important factor in the decline of the United States foreign trade with Latin-America between 1929 and 1931 was voiced here today by George Jackson Eder, formerly of the Latin American section, United States department of commerce.

Addressing the Latin American relations round table at the university's institute of public affairs, Mr. Eder said that analysis by the department with liberal interpretation, indicates that no more than 10 per cent of the decline is attributable directly to the tariff act. The remainder of the total actual loss of trade amounting to about 50 per cent, may be laid at the door of the depression, he said.

An optimistic note was sounded by George F. Train, Latin American specialist of the National City Company of New York, who predicted the resumption of foreign debt services when conditions became more favorable. Train said the drop in the commodity price level and the falling off in world trade made it impossible for debtor nations to meet their obligations with the result that today "one-half of the Latin American bonds outstanding in this country are in partial or complete default."

Dr. Max Winkler, president of the American Council on Foreign Bondholders, Inc., New York, said America's stake in the countries south of the Rio Grande is far less adequately protected now than it was prior to the World War. "There are outstanding at the present time in the United States, he said, Latin American government, state and municipal obligations to an amount of approximately $2,000,000,000."

'Slave Block' To Open In Los Angeles Today

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—(AP) Reminiscent of the pre-Civil War days, "a slave block" where unemployed men's services will be auctioned to the highest bidder, will go into operation here tomorrow.

Louis Byrnes, welfare worker, free-lance politician and former auctioneer, has received a permit from the city park commission to direct the block in the historic old plaza in the Mexican district of the city.

OWNEY MADDEN, GOTHAM GANGSTER, BACK IN SING SING

OSISING, N. Y., July 6.—(AP) Owney Madden, notorious Broadway character, unexpectedly surrendered at the gates of Sing Sing prison late today to resume a prison sentence which was again effective by a court decision of last Friday.

Madden appeared about 5:30 p. m. at the front entrance of the prison, which had been closed for the night a half hour before. A new keeper failed to recognize Madden.

Clement Ferling, secretary to the warden, chanced to stop near the entrance.

"Hello, Mr. Ferling," said Madden. "I'm coming in."

Ferling immediately recognized the reputed New York racket boss.

"As soon as I heard I had lost an appeal I planned to surrender," Madden continued.

Madden was sent to Sing Sing in 1915 for manslaughter in the killing of Pat Doyle. He was paroled on February 24, 1923, from an indeterminate term of 10 to 20 years.

Hospital Dedicated.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., July 6.—(AP) The new veterans' hospital here was dedicated today to the relief of suffering humanity. Leaders prominent in the political, industrial and military life of the state were present for the dedication of the institution, completed recently at a cost of a million dollars.

CARPENTER SLAYS CAPITAL OFFICER TO HAVE SOME FUN

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP) Nicholas A. Long, a 64-year-old carpenter, killed one policeman and wounded three others today before police shot their way into his barricaded home to capture him.

Under a heavy guard at police headquarters the apparently crazed carpenter said he had "done it to have some fun, to start some fireworks."

The dead officer was Elmer A. Swanson, 30-year-old father of four children. He was shot in the head as he was advancing on the Long home after police had been called by the carpenter's family.

The three wounded officers were taken to hospitals. Physicians said they were not seriously hurt.

Long was armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a rifle for which he said he had over 110 rounds of ammunition. Members of his family were unable to give any reason for his sudden rage and the resulting battle.

Robert E. Taylor, a government clerk who roomed at the Long home, was in the house during the battle but escaped uninjured, although suffering somewhat from tear gas used by police to dislodge Long.

The carpenter told police afterwards that he wished he "had shot

Former Refugee Heads American Observatory

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., July 6.—(AP) A one-time Russian war refugee has taken over the directorship of the University of Chicago's observatory.

He is Dr. Otto Struve, whose ancestors for three generations were noted as astronomers under the imperial Russian government. He succeeds Dr. Edwin B. Frost, blind astronomer, who recently resigned, after having served in that capacity since 1908.

Professor Struve, who is now an American citizen, was born at Kharkov less than 35 years ago.

CHICAGO GANGSTER NAMED KIDNAPER

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Louis "Two-gun Louie" Alterie, former gangster pal of Dion O'Banion, squirmed uncomfortably in his chair today as an erstwhile companion identified him as a kidnaper.

Alterie lounged lazily as his alleged victim, Edward Dobkin told of the kidnapping and admitted inability to identify the kidnappers, but he fidgeted uneasily when Gus Sanger testified he received from Alterie and his co-defendant, Charles "Buster" Brown, St. Louis and Kansas City hoodlums, a share of the $8,000 Dobkin ransom.

NEW EVIDENCE CLAIM SAVES LEA FROM JAIL

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 6.—(AP) Basing their plea on a claim that they had new evidence to offer, Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, and Wallace B. Davis, former Asheville banker, today had obtained an order staying their imprisonment for conspiring to defraud the Central Bank and Trust Company here, until they can present in superior court a petition for a new trial.

Robert R. Williams, defense attorney, obtained from Superior Court Judge P. A. McElroy a stay until July 25, when superior court convenes here again, claiming new evidence and irregularities at the first trial.

Phone Magnate's Son Is Killed in Wreck

BROOKINGS, S. D., July 6.—(AP) A vacation trip to Alaska of two sons of American Telephone and Telegraph Company magnates was interrupted here last night by an auto accident in which one was killed and the other injured.

Edwin Carter, 22, son of E. F. Carter, vice president of the company, died of a broken neck when his automobile crashed through a fence on highway 14, near Aurora, after failing to make a turn in the road.

Walter Sherman Gifford, 14-year-old son of W. S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, suffered a crushed left arm.

"We've spilled the beans" in the smoker's interest

DO you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long had been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!"

Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has chosen to raise this question... because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have not feared to "spill the beans."

Crisp Leads House Revolt Against Hoover Interference

Georgian Urges Immediate Passage of Relief Legislation Despite Threat of White House Veto.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, today led the revolt in the house against the interference by President Hoover with the work of congressional relief legislation.

Although not at the White House conference held this morning between the president and senate and house conferees, Judge Crisp appealed to his colleagues to expedite the passage of relief legislation even if it is threatened by a presidential veto.

Immediately after the Georgian had completed his remarks, Speaker Garner, Minority Leader Snell, Majority Leader Rainey and other members of the lower chamber, urged a non-partisan consideration of help for the unemployed.

"Mr. Speaker," said Judge Crisp, "I am sure every member of this house is anxious to have some relief measure passed to aid in economic recovery and to provide for those unfortunate citizens who are in need of the necessities of life.

"For eight days conferees representing the house and the senate have been striving to reach an agreement, giving and taking and trying to get a bill that we hoped would meet the approval of the president, the senate and the house, because we wanted relief legislation. The conferees had three equations to consider with that purpose in view, to wit: the views of the executive, to get his approval, the tative Goldsborough, of Maryland, whether he knew of any president for interference by the executive with the legislative branch.

"Of course," answered the Georgian, "my friend will understand the president has a right to advise with congress, through formal message. I want to be clear, however, that the United States must sign this bill or his veto must be overridden by a two-thirds vote; and when the president invites members of both branches of congress to confer with him on a matter vital to the country, we readily attended the conference."

HOOVER, GARNER EXCHANGE THURSTS

on the bill that he was "through with class legislation" and that a "democratic administration legislates for the whole people; a republican administration legislates for certain special classes."

President Hoover said the insistence of Speaker Garner on provisions that shall be relief legislation at all costs is not just around the corner, but is a matter of life and death to the country.

President Hoover said the insistence of Speaker Garner on provisions that shall be relief legislation at all costs is not just around the corner, but is a matter of life and death to the country.

"I wish to emphasize what I mean," he continued. "Such a proposal means that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is to take over an impossible task and to assume the burden of the banking business that is to deal with the doubtful credits in the whole United States.

"To carry out such a purpose it would be necessary, as I have said, for the board of seven men to set up branch banks in practically every community and to direct their operations from Washington to the remotest dependent upon men in these thousands of branches."

"Any attempt to carry out such a law under these conditions would mean the squandering of hundreds of millions of dollars of public funds."

Garner explained that in order to obtain relief legislation he had been from his stand on other sections of the bill.

"I believe you have got to have some reservoir of relief, federal in its nature, or you are going to have riots in this country," Garner said. "You might as well be plain about it. I want to see the legislation passed and therefore I am willing to make the concession."

"Select Clientele."

"I am willing to make a surrender, and then I would like to give the assurance that congress desires to serve the whole people of the United States while the president says, 'I will take my select clientele or you will take nothing in the way.'"

After the republican and democratic leaders and conferees had failed to reach an agreement with President Hoover at the White House last night on the phases of the relief measure, Garner attended the second unsuccessful conference today. Its outcome virtually ended hopes for an agreement between congress and the president and indicated the bill would be passed which the president would veto unless he yielded.

Other controversies in the huge measure were eliminated at the conference. It was agreed that a $300,000,000 relief fund for loans to states be allotted on the basis of need as Mr. Hoover wanted, with a 15 per cent limitation to each state.

Municipalities may borrow through state governments.

Another compromise was reached on the public works section. The president wanted it stricken from the bill but agreed to let the $100,000,000 for highway construction stand, and the remainder of the $322,000,000 program to remain, with the stipulation that the secretary of the treasury determine whether the fiscal condition of the government would allow the expenditure.

Snell charged that Garner "in his speech here today has made more direct appeal for class distinction and class discrimination than any speech that has been made on the floor of the house in this session."

"If the distinguished speaker ever made a demagogic appeal he made that appeal today."

Garner questioned.

After being asked by Representative Goldsborough, democrat, Maryland, whether it was proper for the president to summon to the White House members of congress, the conferees reached between the two houses, Speaker Garner said in part:

"It has not been customary since I have been a member of congress, but when the president of the United States invites members of the house to the executive office for the purpose of discussing the welfare of the Union I do not see how it is possible that we could refuse."

"However, I do want to say that it is not the best custom. And I do not think it is quite in keeping with the constitution or the thought of the makers of the constitution as to the relation between the executive and the legislative branches of the government for the president of the United States to wait until a conference report is completed, and then to be summoned to the executive office for the purpose of telling them how to correct their work. It ought not to exist and I on this floor protest against it."

Purpose of Bill.

"Title two of the bill has for its purpose the lending of $3,500,000,000 to the people of the United States. That is the difference between the president and myself. Representative Rainey joined me.

"Back in February we passed what is known as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act at the urgent request of the president of the United States, to take the place of a private corporation created by the bankers of this country to do the same thing that the R. F. C. is doing, except that it had no limitations on what it could loan money for. We passed the act although we were hesitant."

"We knew we were launching into a field that could not be defended under the principles of the constitution of the United States. But this country was in the throes of desperation, economically. And as the result, we took it as the president said, it, hoping and believing it would restore confidence and prosperity."

"The corporation has been functioning now for four months. It probably has been of wonderful benefit to the country. Nobody can tell. Nobody knows how many banks would have their doors closed today had it not been for the corporation. I think it has been a benefit to the country, but it has not brought about the results we hoped for."

"The issue between the president and the congress is this: We are going to be the last of this corporation. You say the railroad, insurance companies, the stock and bond markets, banks of all kinds and other corporate interests have been wonderfully benefited."

"We now propose in the house of representatives to add $1,500,000,000 to the funds of that corporation, that much of the money of the people of the United States, and we propose to say that from henceforth there shall be no class legislation, no class legislation, but that the whole people of the United States are going to share in it."

"How can you gentlemen sit here and have your taxpayers put up $3,500,000,000 and then say to citizens in your state that want to borrow money, that have adequate security, and who are interested by the borrowing of that money to put labor to work—how can you say, sir, that this R. F. C. ought not to make the loan?"

"How can you say it is more important in this nation that the New York Central railroad should meet the interest on its bonds in July and August of this year than it is to provide the sale of 500,000 farms and homes in this republic."

Threat of Panic.

"I undertake to say, now, and I have the president's authority for it, that this country is in worse shape than it has ever been in all its history, because I heard him say so last night, and he is the president of the United States. Do you believe the appropriation of $332,000,000 will bring on a panic?"

"He said he was afraid of it. He said it might, and that would be a shock to the country. So, if the president of the United States has arrived at the conclusion that prosperity is not just around the corner, but that panic is staring in the face, I am led to the belief he anticipates what may happen in the near future in this country and wants to make some excuse for it."

"I said to the president this morning as I said to him last night, I am through with class legislation. I want to provide this $3,500,000,000 and you want to give it to the railroad, the insurance companies, the mortgage companies and the immense wealth of the country."

"They said to me, 'Why, all the people will get a benefit out of it.' My friend, it is too good to be true. It does not reach down to the earth. I want to start at the bottom. I want to start with the people who control this corporation. They are the people who say that this money is lifted into their keeping by all the taxpayers of the United States."

Partial Distribution.

"The railroad companies, the banks and the insurance companies do not want this money in this republic, so why should you say that these seven men cannot be trusted either with respect to their wisdom or their patriotism, and then you ought to repeal the law."

"Now on the democratic side you may say, and some of you on the republican side may think, that we ought not to trust this board with such a large sum of money or with such broad discretionary powers."

"My friends, if you are going to take that position, then there is only one consistent thing for you to do and that is to say that these seven men cannot be trusted either with respect to their wisdom or their patriotism, and then you ought to repeal the law."

"You ought not to put this trust in the hands of men that you are not going to give an opportunity to serve all the people of the country, you give them the opportunity to serve a certain class or a certain interest."

"If you cannot trust them to lend to the individual or to the corporation, why did you trust them to lend to the particular class enumerated in the present law? I say that."

"One and exercise discretion in that particular, you can trust them to lend to all."

ESTATE SHOWPLACE OF WINSTON-SALEM

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 6.—(UP)—The huge estate in which the late Mr. J. B. Reynolds, heir to the $200,000,000 Reynolds tobacco estate, committed suicide today, is the most famous "showplace" in this part of the country.

The 600 landscaped acres were prepared in advance for the building of the $2,000,000, three-story residence built in 1917. The estate is called Reynolds.

One enters through an archway and along a heavily-shaded drive beside the nine-hole golf course, with its bunkers and greens kept as perfectly as the site of a national tournament.

The house is as long as a city block and about half as deep. The porch is floored with expensive tile and dotted with beautiful Chinese vases from which strange plants and flowers hide the windows of the front rooms.

Expensive chimneys on the estate rise out the house to the residents of Winston-Salem.

SMITH REYNOLDS, HEIR TO MILLIONS, COMMITS SUICIDE

Holman scream. He rushed upstairs, found Reynolds lying on the sleeping porch unconscious with a pistol wound in his head and carried him to a hospital. Reynolds died there at dawn without regaining consciousness.

Reynolds was one of four children who shared jointly in the wealth of their father. He had an elder brother, R. J. Reynolds Jr., known as Dick, who was reported by members of the Reynolds household to be somewhere in Europe at present.

Two sisters, Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, both live in New York. His sisters were reported to be on their way home.

His mother, Mrs. Edward Johnson, of Baltimore, after the death of R. J. Reynolds Sr., died several years ago.

Smith Reynolds' personal fortune has been estimated in excess of $25,000,000. Neither he nor his brother was ever actively connected with the management of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

His romance with Libby Holman, a Cincinnati, Ohio, girl whose voice, of a peculiar husky timbre, caught the fancy of Broadway and lifted her to the heights of stardom, began after the collapse of an earlier marriage with Anne Cannon, daughter of a wealthy Concord, N. C., textile manufacturer.

He and Miss Cannon were married at 2 a. m., in October, 1929, in York, S. C. Her father and his chauffeur accompanied them from Concord to South Carolina's Gretna Green.

Their marriage lasted a little more than a year and then they were divorced in Reno, Nev. He settled a million dollars upon her and their infant daughter.

Provisions of Will.

A close friend of the Reynolds family said tonight that the former Libby Holman probably will inherit nothing from the Reynolds millions as result of the death of her husband.

Mrs. Reynolds, who said probably will inherit half of the property owned personally by young Smith Reynolds, the other half to go to the sisters and brothers of the deceased.

The will of R. J. Reynolds, he said, made no provision for the husbands and wives of Reynolds' children in the event of death of the children.

Provision was made, he said, for an income for the children when they are between the ages of 21 and 28 years, and for the issue of those children in the event any of the children die between the ages of 21 and 28 years.

Mrs. Reynolds, who has since died, was made executrix of the will. At her death, he said, her will was revealed to be practically the same as that of her husband, except that she provided nothing but income for the children, whereas her husband had provided a settlement for the children, when they reached the age of 28.

Mrs. Reynolds, however, had not reached the age of 21 years at the time of his death today.

NEW YORK FRIENDS

STUNNED BY TRAGEDY

NEW YORK, July 6.—(P)—New York friends of Smith Reynolds, youthful tobacco heir, were stunned today by news of his death in Winston-Salem and were at a loss to say why he should wish to take his life.

He pointed out that with youth, and millions and a wife who was one of Broadway's most popular stars he had much to live for.

The romance between Reynolds, young sportsman and ardent enthusiast known throughout the country, and Miss Libby Holman, who rose to

Oil Baron Names Kansas City Star In New Suit Totaling $42,000,000

KANSAS CITY, July 6.—(P)—Two suits asking damages aggregating $42,000,000 were filed today against the Kansas City Star and its executives by Henry L. Doherty personally and by the Cities Service Gas Company.

The suit of the Cities Service Company alleging conspiracy was filed in the Jackson county (Missouri) circuit court and seeks $20,000,000 actual and $10,000,000 punitive damages.

Doherty's libel suit, asking $6,000,000 actual and $8,000,000 punitive damages was filed at Topeka in the district court of Shawnee county, Kansas.

The actions bring to $54,000,000 the total for which the Star has been sued by Doherty and the Cities Service Company for alleged libel and conspiracy. The first action for $12,000,000 was filed a year ago in the Jackson county circuit court.

In a statement issued today Doherty indicated other actions will follow.

The petition filed in the Shawnee county district court cites six causes of action and asks $1,000,000 actual and $1,000,000 punitive damages on each. Each cause is based on a separate article or cartoon published in the Star.

The sixth cause of action was based on an editorial reprinted in the morning edition of the Star from the Emporia Gazette. William Allen White's paper. The petition alleges it was written by White's son, W. L. White.

The suit in the name of the Cities Service Gas Company charges that the Star printed attacks on it as the result of a conspiracy between the newspaper and persons unknown to the plaintiff to injure and destroy the plaintiff's business.

For many months the Star has conducted an editorial campaign for lower gas rates in Missouri and Kansas. The first libel suit, filed by Doherty, resulted from this campaign.

It was based on a charge attributed to the Star that Mr. Doherty profited personally from fees charged subsidiary companies for managerial services.

Republican: Wirt Franklin, 17,332; James A. Harris, 9,485; U. S. Stone, 8,300.

Will Rogers, a country school teacher with a famous name, rolled up an astonishing total of votes for the democratic nomination as congressman-at-large tonight as tabulators, who at first overlooked him in a field of 25 candidates, began to count his ballots.

When only 843 out of 3,300 precincts had been heard from, Rogers, head of a Moore (Okla.) school four years, had 14,886 votes, while Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections, who campaigned as a foe of Governor William H. Murray, was leading the tabulated ticket with 34,647 votes from 2,056 precincts.

It appeared possible Oklahoma voters who marked one of the state's most familiar names—that of the Clarence, Okla., humorist—at the primary may have put the school teacher in the run-off primary July 26 with Mrs. Bassett.

RAILROADS FIGHT NEW RATE ORDER

Some Growers and Shippers Join in Opposing Prepayment Rule.

Some growers and shippers of perishables joined railroads of Georgia Wednesday in opposing a recent order by the public service commission directing the carriers to cease requiring prepayment of freight on fruits and vegetables.

Other growers and shippers, backed by Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, who first proposed the new rule, argued for its continuance. The order remained in force pending a decision. The commission will take the matter under advisement today after briefs have been filed.

J. L. Tylman, of Moultrie, and others who said they represented growers and shippers handling a very large percentage of the perishables in Georgia, opposed the order in a telegram to the commission.

The opposite position was taken in a telegram from L. Powell, of Omea. J. E. Telford, chairman of the Southern Freight Association, and other railroad representatives, argued that the commission had not prepared over their methods of collection, that the new rule would create discrimination between interstate and intrastate shipments and would damage the growers and shippers themselves by glutting Georgia markets with shipments from irresponsible sources.

Talmadge argued that fruit and vegetable growers in this state were in such financial condition that the necessity of prepaying freight or making bond for its payment would seriously hamper the marketing of their crops.

BREWERS FORESEE HUGE EXPENDITURE TO REOPEN PLANTS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 6.—(UP)—Encouraged by the democratic party's "dripping wet" platform, Milwaukee brewers today were prepared to spend $100,000,000 and employ 4,500 men if the manufacture of alcoholic beer is legalized.

Heads of the three largest breweries, Schlitz, Blatz and Pabst, all agreed they could be ready to produce beer at a moment's notice.

An expenditure of $5,000,000, including $750,000 for labor, would be made the first year by the Pabst corporation, Fred Pabst Sr., president, announced.

The Schlitz Brewing Company would spend $3,000,000 for supplies and labor and several millions for additional equipment and materials, W. A. Schlager, president, declared.

"The Blatz company conservatively estimates it would add 700 or 800 employees and spend $1,000,000 immediately if beer were legalized," said Frank M. Gabel, vice president.

ATLANTA RE-ELECTED
BY CONFECTIONERS

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 6.—(AP) James J. Reiss, of New Orleans, was elected president of the Southern Wholesale Confectioners' Association at the annual convention here today. W. P. Rollings, of Mobile, Ala., was elected vice president, and W. M. Wallace, of Atlanta, Ga., was re-elected treasurer. C. M. McMillan, of Atlanta, is the secretary.

State vice presidents, who constitute the board of directors, were named as follows: Mrs. L. P. Means, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Harry Sugarman, Atlanta, Ga.; L. W. Edwards, Aniston, Ala.; T. C. Rhea, Dyersburg, Tenn.; Thad. Lewellyn, Winston-Salem, N. C.; L. V. Jones, Greenville, S. C.; H. S. Biedenbarn, Vicksburg, Miss.; B. W. Biedenbarn, Monroe, La.; and J. C. Quarles, Charlottesville, Va.

Hearing Postponed.
BARTOW, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—The illness today of State Attorney J. C. Rogers, of Lakeland, caused the postponement of a habeas corpus hearing for Emmett Donnelly, held as an accessory to the murder of former Mayor Joe H. Beal. The hearing was set for 2 o'clock Saturday. Beal was slain from ambush on the night of June 25 while he and his wife sat in a screened porch at their home in Lake Wales.

Rabun Gap-Nacoochee School Given $12,500 Carnegie Grant

Third Gift to North Georgia Institution Must Be Used for Equipment, Terms Provide.

Indicating special interest in the farm family-school plan, the Carnegie Corporation, of New York, has made a special grant of $12,500 to the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school, of Rabun, Ga., according to announcement made Wednesday in a meeting of the executive board of the institution.

The appropriation, which was the third made by the corporation after inspection of the school by educational experts, provides for new equipment and is not for operating expenses, according to J. Bulow Campbell, chairman of the trustees.

During the meeting of the trustees it was brought out that the 1,500 acres of farm land of the school provides practically the entire food supply for the student body, which arrangement makes the enterprise one of the most unusual in the country.

The schools were founded 25 years ago, located within adjoining counties. Both turned five years ago but in 1928 were consolidated and rebuilt and now possess $300,000 in equipment and land value, according to the trustees, who said the last year had been one of the most successful in the history of the institutions. A. J. Ritchie and J. K. Coit are associate superintendents.

Mr. Campbell and George Winship, secretary, presided at the executive meeting and others present were Dr. J. Sproule Lyons, Dr. J. R. McCain, Marion Smith, Harry Hodgson, Rev. J. K. Coit, Miss Susie Blacklock and Mrs. A. J. Ritchie.

Bolter May Lose Democratic Posts

GULFPORT, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—Declarations of W. L. Guice, delegate from Mississippi to the national democratic convention at Chicago, that he would not support the nominee of the party but would offer his services as a stump speaker for President Hoover's re-election, today brought a threat against several opposition positions now held by Guice on the Mississippi coast under the state democratic regime.

Petitions were circulated in Gulfport seeking removal of Guice as attorney for the Harrison county board of supervisors and others seeking his displacement as attorney for the state oyster commission also were reported in circulation. Both petitions were predicated upon the alleged Chicago declarations of Guice that he would bolt the party. They asked that a "good democrat" be named in his stead.

BONUS RELIEF GROUP TO STAGE FREE SHOW

In an effort to raise funds to relieve the Atlanta contingent of "bonus marchers" still in Washington, D. C., the World War Veterans' Relief Committee of Georgia plans to stage a big free show in the city auditorium of East Point at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

A number of entertainment features have been arranged, featured by the appearance of Jack Dare, Canadian "ace" who will give an exhibition of escaping from a straitjacket while chained and handcuffed. The public is invited to the show and donations received will be used to buy food for the Atlanta "bonus" members, it was said.

HUMPHRIES EXPLAINS ACCUSATION PLAN

Prisoners Guaranteed Every Right Under Constitution, Judge Reveals.

Every right now guaranteed by the constitution of the federal government or by various states would be preserved if the plan to try criminal cases on accusation instead of by indictment were approved, Judge John D. Humphries, who recommended the plan to the new Fulton county grand jury, explained Wednesday.

"The federal constitution provides for trial of serious offenses only on indictment by a grand jury, but the defendant has a right to waive this," Judge Humphries said. "If the program as promulgated by the American Bar Association and the Georgia Bar Association is approved, and defendant has a right to demand a grand jury inquisition into the accusation which the solicitor-general or the prosecuting attorney might file against him."

"The plan is not to take any right away from defendants, but attorneys who feel that the best interests of their clients are at stake and who believe that in a certain case no advantage could be gained from a grand jury probe of the facts, would avail themselves of the opportunity to waive long processes in the interest of their own time and to protect the best interests of their clients by eliminating long waits."

"As the program has been conceived and is now submitted, any defendant, even though he was certain he would be indicted if the matter went to the grand jury, could force it to that if he so desired. Every right now given the defendant would be preserved under the new plan."

"But there are many advantages."

Alumni of Clemson To Meet on July 15

Alumni of Clemson College living in and near Atlanta will hold an informal dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, July 15, according to plans made recently by several former Clemson graduates.

A special committee has been appointed to see each alumnus personally. It is estimated that there are about 75 residing in or near Atlanta. Those members whom the committee fails to locate are asked to make reservations, by Tuesday, July 14. This may be done by calling George W. Suggs, at Walnut 2973, or W. E. Bowers, at Dearborn 0805-M.

Attorneys do not usually make any moves which will not react to the benefit of their clients. When it was a foregone conclusion that the grand jury would indict, I and every other person who has studied the matter, are certain that no move to force grand jury action would be taken. This elimination would save thousands of dollars annually in Fulton county alone. It would save lawyers much time in presentation of useless causes to the grand jury. It would save clients thousands of days in apprehension, and would expedite actual trial of cases, saving the solicitor's offices much of the time now spent in preparing cases for submission to grand juries, the summoning of witnesses and their resumption for the trial of the cases.

"I do not believe the right of a single defendant in the entire land would be abridged in the slightest and am confident that the system would react to the benefit of the accused and to society in general. A grand jury probe would be made wherever demanded, but none would be required if it were waived."

Soldiers Injured.

MANILA, July 6.—(AP)—The Thirty-first United States infantry returned to Manila today to suffer its first casualties since sailing for war-torn Shanghai five months ago. During the landing of the approximately 1,200 officers and men from the transport Republic, a gangplank slipped and fell 50 feet, injuring four enlisted men.

MORRIS TRIAL MAY GO TO NEW COMMITTEE

Contemplated passage by council this afternoon of a measure to place the city prison farm under the direction of a special council committee will transfer the charges now filed against Tom C. Morris, superintendent, under the new committee, it was announced Wednesday afternoon by Councilman George B. Lyle, chairman of the streets committee. Council meets at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The streets committee, which now has supervision of the farm, was preparing to try Morris on the complaints filed against him in affidavit form next Monday night, but Lyle said if the council sets up a special council committee to direct the farm, he will insist that the committee take over the charges against Morris.

Councilman J. Frank Beck, of the eighth ward, is author of the resolution setting up a special council committee to direct the farm. It was tabled several weeks ago, but Councilman Lyle will support it and administration leaders believe it would be a better way to handle the farm. There appeared Wednesday a strong likelihood that it will be approved today by council and sent to Mayor James L. Key for his sanction.

Councilman Parks Rusk has called a meeting of a special council committee to oppose a constitutional amendment providing that only the state shall have the right to tax intangibles. Administrators hold that such a plan would take about $500,000 from the city. Rusk's committee will meet at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Fair, Warm Weather Slated for Atlanta

A spell of fair weather with slightly increasing temperatures was promised by the weather man Wednesday afternoon after the showers. Despite several successive days of wet weather, July rainfall is deficient by .29 of an inch.

Temperatures Wednesday ranged between 74 and 86 with indications that the minimum and maximum will go a degree or two higher today. Heavy rainfall in the Inman Park section Wednesday morning flooded Euclid avenue, just below Steeple street, to a depth of several feet, and for a distance of more than a hundred feet, blocking auto traffic for several hours. The public works department sent a crew out to dig away the accumulated debris on each side of the street, releasing the impounded flood waters. Traffic along Euclid avenue was resumed around noon, after a stop of an hour or more.

BILLY REESE IS ENOUGH TO MAKE A SET

The customer is always right and so I will go right ahead as requested and say something about the Olympic games, which are practically staring us in the face. And a hungry stare it is, too, if we are to believe the Olympic finance committee.

It is impossible to say what has happened to the muscles and the legs and arms and noggins of our young men, but the fact remains that they have been smashing records right along since they entered these Olympic contests years ago.

The first Olympic games to be held in the United States were staged at St. Louis in 1904. They were having a depression then. (And you thought this was the first one.) There were not as many visiting athletes here as had been hoped for, the tariffs on steam tickets not being what they are now. Nevertheless, the events were held before a grandstand which had a seating capacity of only 9,000. And it was filled for only one event—the marathon run. Only the start and finish of this race may be seen from the stands.

The records of the Olympics of that year are herewith supplied, together with the present Olympic record:

DECISION IS WITHHELD IN JOHN DOWNER PLEA

Evidence Concluded in Federal Court Petition for Habeas Corpus.

MACON, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—The petition of a Georgia negro for a writ of habeas corpus, brought as a result of his trial and conviction in Elbert county a year ago on charges of criminal assault, was taken under advisement by federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver here Wednesday afternoon.

Counsel submitted the case without argument after introducing evidence for two days. The court was requested, however, to withhold decision until the lawyers may obtain a stenographic report of the evidence and submit briefs. It may be several weeks, therefore, before the case is decided.

Meanwhile, John Downer, the negro, was returned to the Bibb county jail.

The case has attracted wide attention. Judge Deaver dismissed the habeas corpus petition in June, 1931. However, he granted an order of habeas corpus and appeal was taken to a higher court.

Judge Deaver was reversed by the circuit court of appeals, which body directing that a hearing be had on the petition. The circuit court held that the writ should be granted if the allegations in the petition could be proved.

A case is not of record in which such a petition has been granted by a federal court in the United States, attorneys said.

Just what Judge Deaver's powers are in the matter are not definitely known. Attorneys for Downer argue that the trial in Elbert county was a trial in the state court. They claim "without due process of law" and ask that it be declared void. There is no prayer for the negro's release, and should Judge Deaver grant the writ, he probably will remand the case to Elbert county for retrial.

Such an order, attorneys said, would have the effect of declaring that never was a trial in the state court. They expressed belief that there would be no grounds for a plea of former jeopardy.

Campaign on Speeding Ambulances Promised

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—A warning to ambulance drivers against reckless driving has been issued by Police Chief William Kendall.

"I do not wish to make any cases against ambulance drivers," he said. "I think their mission of hurrying patients to hospital for treatment is an errand of mercy, but I must not permit the lives of others to be endangered."

In many instances, ambulances speed through the city when there is no necessity for speed, and they endanger the life and property of motorists, pedestrians and others."

WILLIAM M. HOWARD FUNERAL RITES TODAY

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Funeral services for William M. Howard, prominent attorney and former congressman, who died here last night, will be conducted tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at Lexington, Ga.

The services, to be conducted by the Rev. W. A. Tyson, of Augusta, will be held at the graveside in Clark cemetery.

D. G. Fogarty, president of the Augusta Bar Association, said many members of the local bar would accompany the remains to Lexington.

NEGRO BAR ON JURIES BRINGS GUILT REVERSAL

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 6.—(AP)—The practice of a Maryland county court in excluding negroes from jury duty was responsible today for giving a new trial to a convicted murderer.

The Maryland court of appeals yesterday ordered retrial of the case of Earl Lee, alias Ophelia Jones, convicted of murdering Green K. Davis, a Worcester county farmer.

Lee was also charged with killing Davis' wife and two daughters after a wage dispute, but was tried only for the single murder.

FOUR ARE RELEASED IN MYSTERY SLAYING

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—Four persons arrested for questioning in the mysterious slaying here recently of Noel Morgan were released today, after a coroner's inquest jury last night found Morgan came to his death "at the hands of parties unknown to this jury."

Those freed were Will Kyser, Bud Crews, Mrs. Leitha Warren and Florence Dowling, the latter sisters.

At a preliminary investigation a coroner ordered Kyser and Mrs. Warren held for investigation, while Crews and the Dowling woman were released later.

Line section foreman, was beaten to death near Rayburn, where he had made his home in recent months.

AGRICULTURAL AGENTS OPEN ATHENS MEETING

Conservation and Preservation of Food To Be Stressed.

ATHENS, Ga., July 6.—Declaring that Georgia, next to North Carolina, has shown greater progress than any other southern state in the carrying out of the "live-at-home" program initiated two years ago, J. Phil Campbell, director of extension service, opened a week's conference here Tuesday with district and county agricultural agents from north Georgia.

The conference was called by Director Campbell for the timely and careful consideration of the extension program with particular emphasis on the conservation and preservation of food and feed products. The subject discussed at the opening session was the marketing of farm products.

Campbell stated the board of regents at their annual meeting in Athens expressed great interest in the program of extension service. He also stated that the service is concentrating its efforts to open markets for farm products by placing assistant county agents, specialists in marketing, and an extra number of home demonstration agents in consuming centers. The service has already placed marketing experts in Atlanta, Columbus, Macon, Augusta and Savannah.

These experts, working through an organization of the service, are supplying Georgia markets with Georgia products. Farmers in these sections are already feeling the effects of this work through improved marketing of their products.

The extension workers who are housed in Camp Wilkins on the campus of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, brought with them 285 4-H club boys who are outstanding in this work. These boys will have an intensive training course for one week under the direction of G. V. Cunningham, state boys' club agent, and his assistant, A. S. Bussey.

ASSOCIATES HONOR PROF. R. C. LITTLE

Members and former members of the faculty of Boys' High school, at which he taught for a quarter of a century, formed an honorary escort at the funeral Wednesday of Professor R. C. Little, 55, who was killed early Tuesday when his automobile crashed into a truck on the highway near Tallahassee, Fla. Rites were conducted in the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes by Dr. Wallace Rogers, and interment was in West View cemetery.

One of the oldest and most respected members of the city school system, Professor Little had been associated with the faculty of Atlanta's Boys' High school since 1905. He served for many years as professor of English and more recently as mathematics instructor. He was a native of Putnam county and was a graduate of Emory University. Many of Atlanta's younger businessmen studied "under" him.

Surviving are three sons, a sister and a brother.

Augusta Claims State Residence Of Independence Document Signer

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—A remark by William G. Sutlive, managing editor of the Savannah Evening Press, that Effingham county might claim the Georgia residence of George Walton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, has aroused the statement here that Augusta has a better claim.

Mr. Sutlive, in a Fourth of July address at Guyton, Ga., asserted that both Savannah and Effingham county claimed Walton as a resident.

Mrs. W. Sanford Gardner, state custodian of Meadow Garden, George Walton's home when he lived in Augusta, says the famed Georgian lived in Savannah for 20 years, but resided in Augusta for 25 years, died here and is buried under the monument in front of the courthouse.

"As for the statement that he once resided in Effingham county," Mrs. Gardner said, "I have searched some of the histories, but have so far been unable to find where he ever lived in Effingham county. However, it may be possible, and if true we would like to learn about it. Everything in connection with his life, of course, is interesting to us."

In his address Mr. Sutlive said that Walton was born in Virginia, but moved to the Guyton vicinity as a young man. "While he is usually assigned to Savannah," Mr. Sutlive said, "early records show that he was really serving as a member of St. Matthews parish (later a part of Effingham county) and for this reason should be credited to what is now Effingham county."

WOMAN EDITOR SCORES MOTOR CARRIER TRUCKS

Freight Conveyors Likened to Prehistoric Dinosaurs in Cordele Editorial.

CORDELE, Ga., July 6.—Comparing the gigantic freight trucks now using the highways to the dinosaur and other monstrous reptiles that, in ancient times, roamed the trails and crept upon normal sized animals, Mrs. Charles E. Brown, editor of the Cordele Daily Dispatch, scored such vehicles unmercifully in an editorial in her newspaper.

Taking as her subject, "These Damned Trucks," Mrs. Brown says: "A trip of a thousand miles across the highways of modern America, with both day and night driving, will strike into the driver's heart a new sort of fear, one that must undoubtedly be similar to that his caveman forbears bore of the huge dinosaur, and other monstrous reptiles that, in ancient times, roamed the trails and crept upon normal sized animals. ## Interesting Out-of-Door Program Is Planned at Camp Highland

Camp Highland, the Y. W. C. A. camp located 12 miles north of Atlanta, invites girls from 10 to 12 years of age as special guests for the week of July 9-15. A carefully supervised program will provide beneficial recreation and the entertainment includes swimming, hikes, impromptu pageants and other features. The fresh country air, with regular hours, healthful exercise and nutritious food, combine to build health and give strength and relaxation. Immediately following the rising bell at 7 o'clock, campers rush to the swimming pool for an early morning dip or a hike before breakfast at 7:45 o'clock.

The morning assembly, directed by Miss Louise McCain at 8:45 o'clock, is followed by inspection of shacks and opening of the camp store. At 10:15 o'clock campers gather for gym club practice, directed by Miss Gus Riddle, and practice for dramatics. Under the supervision of Miss Margaret Belotte, at least two plays are given each week and all the girls have opportunity to display their histrionic ability to the best advantage.

Younger children enjoy keenly the nature study and handicraft classes conducted by Miss Dorothy Henderson, Miss Annie Lloyd Lugin and Miss Coles Heyward at 11 o'clock, when they learn to identify wild flowers, recognize birds and make cunning gardens in saucers or boxes. In the handicraft classes they paint plaques, baskets or vases, carve bracelets or silver plate or make attractive novelties.

Preceding lunch, which is served at 1 o'clock, there is another swim period from 2 to 3 o'clock quiet hour is observed, when campers must rest in their shacks. As soon as this hour is over, some perfect their skill at archery under the tutelage of Miss Louise McCain; others tap dancing with Miss Virginia Fisher and Miss Florence Preston as dancing masters, while tennis and swimming are taught by Miss Dorothy Henderson, Miss Virginia Fisher and Miss Mary Witt.

From 5 to 8 o'clock is known as "free time" and campers have a choice of shuffleboard, ping-pong, horseshoe pitching, hiking, checkers, croquet, baseball, tennis, reading, or letter writing. Following supper served at 6:15 o'clock, the evening program consists of stunts or dances in the open-air recreation hall; campings around an outdoor fire and evening worship held in Anne Boykin lodge, with taps sounded at 9:45 o'clock and lights out at 10 o'clock.

Roaches Crawl In Filth and Spread Germs

Roaches crawl every night, rarely seen, disseminating unspeakable filth on foods, cooking ware and everything they touch.

These odious pests can be killed easily and cheaply if you use Gator Roach Hives, the exterminator purposely designed to save you the constant application, the costly waste and the unsightly mess of all other roach killers. These open ended little tubes holding a firm, special food that attracts and kills roaches are safe to use because they cannot soil or stain, have no odor and are harmless to pets and fowls. Get few from roach store today—they last for months. Your money will be refunded if you are not delighted with the special services which Gator Roach Hives only can give.—(adv.)

MUST WOMEN SUFFER?

Is it their lot to suffer from cramps and backaches every month? Certainly not. The tonic effect of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has ended all that for many thousands of women.

Mrs. Schaeffer's case is typical. She was always sickly. Tired. Gloomy. "Now," she says, "everywhere I go people tell me how much better I look. I feel like dancing for joy all the time."

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

You seem to have a knowledge of character which leads me to ask you to diagnose my situation. I have always felt myself to be "well-meaning" in every sense. I have tried to take a right stand on all moral and civic questions with helpfulness toward all. There are others with no apparent convictions about anything that comes up, yet they seem to get away with popularity in a way that I fail to do. I have always been the "yes-man" but, after all, don't you say that a "yes-man" to be popular? H. B.

ANSWER: I don't think it is necessary to be a "yes-man" to be popular, but it is necessary in differing with the other person to give some semblance of sympathy with his viewpoint with which you do not agree. Here is the most often misapplied of conviction most often fails. It is here that the most often offends.

There is a current story of an interview which Olin Downes had with the young composer Markvitch, the brightest star in the musical firmament of the moment.

"What do you think of your contemporaries?" asks the critic. Markvitch's reply is eager. "You see I only understand what I myself am trying to do in music, I cannot understand those that have other creative directions, because these are not my own, and not creative. There is the milk in the coconut. These people with strong convictions are so sure of themselves and so sure that they have the right attitude, that they constitute themselves critics of others that they may think differently, though with equal conscientiousness. This young musician evidently trying to placate the distinguished critic, trying to establish his popularity with the public was far too eager to commit himself in criticism of his contemporaries that disagreed with him. Rather he should have said, 'I am not therefore not entitled to pass judgment on the compositions of his contemporaries.'

SYNOPSIS.

Antoinette Brooks, 18 years old, Tony to family and friends, was left alone in the world when her father and mother were killed in an automobile accident in Connecticut, her home town. She has just graduated from high school and intended to go to art school, but she learned that for the last six months her father had fought off bankruptcy. As a child, Tony had taken painting lessons and at she turned her eye for line and color to dress designing. No more "tridgell" appeared on the walls of her home, but on all the Brooks tables were albums, all filled with the dream-dressed Tony or her audience would see her. When her father's estate was settled, Tony had slightly less than $200. An school was out of the question just then; she must earn her living and try to save enough for evening classes. Tony's capital was down to $12 when she got a job as helper in Madame Simon's dress shop in New York.

A month later the saleswoman she assisted quit suddenly and Tony was promoted. She was so frank in advising women what they should not wear that she lost important sales and was dismissed. The same day Leslie (Lee) Moran, a model, also was discharged and had drawn her salary in advance and as her landlady demanded her money in advance, she had no place to go. Tony shared her tiny floor back room at Mrs. Higgins' with Lee, who became discouraged at their failure to get jobs and said she was going out to look for a new place. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VI.
"I see," Tony knew Tom Stewart didn't see in the least. Small wonder. The way she had stumbled over the message. If Mrs. Higgins would fade away she would explain why she had seemed so confused. The silence was becoming worse than awkward. Evidently Mrs. Higgins was rooted to the spot and expected to stay rooted. "Lee will be back—in fact, I expected to find her when I came in. I'm sorry I can't ask you to wait here—there's no place. I was just going for a walk, to the delicatessen around the corner. If you'd care to come along, perhaps Lee will come in while we're gone." The delicatessen was an inspiration.

"Thanks."
Tony thought: He's not exactly overwhelmed with the privilege of escorting me. I suppose he's jealous of Lee. I despise jealousy. It's mean and selfish and unfair. It's unfair to believe that anyone has got to love you, or even to like you. Mr. Tom Stewart, you deserve not to be told it was Mrs. Higgins, not you, I was trying to throw off the track.

Going down the chipped stone stoop Tony realized that the young man who had taken such gingerly possession of her arm was indeed very tall. He towered. His fingers were long and slim. She could feel their pressure at her elbow. She wondered if his face was long and slim too. Probably. And his eyes were deepest, she judged, to match his voice.

She ought to punish him a bit for his suspicious, delay explaining. Oh, phaw! He probably was hurt. Her words tumbled: "Lee is really out looking for work. We've lost our places at Simon's and—well we need to do something right away."

But Tony did not want Lee to go, unless she really loved Tom and would be happy with him. Lee was a good companion, an understanding one. Being alone in the city was the kind of solitude that bred morbidity, despair. Besides, truth, especially unwelcome truth, was more likely to incur resentment than to inspire gratitude. It had lost Tony her place at Mme. Simon's. This time she would hold her tongue.

Here we are, the busy housewife's delight. They were at the delicatessen.

Don't forget that ice cream is a splendid food for the children, as well as the rest of the family during the summer months. Make it yourself with fresh fruit at little expense.

Phone Is Alarm.
The sale of alarm clocks in Paris is threatened with a drastic slump following a new service offered to telephone subscribers. For a small fee the telephone company has offered to call all subscribers who wish to rise at a certain hour. A system of this kind has been in operation at Marseilles since 1929, and it has been decided in view of the success there, to extend the service to all towns with a population in excess of 2,000 subscribers.

Aunt Het
The final contract was five clubs by South, which was followed by East. West, during the course of his bidding, having shown both hearts and spades and thus in a measure placing probably 10 cards in his hand. In the play, West opened the spade.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Defeating an End-Play

One of the favorite subjects of those who write on Bridge is the manner in which difficult contracts are made through end-plays, elimination resulting in forced leads, and other tools of the trade of a good Contract player. Declarers, however, should have no monopoly on good plays, and players holding the defensive cards should be able to realize possible end-plays almost as soon as the Declarer himself, and take steps to prevent them when possible.

An excellent example of this situation was furnished recently in a Rubber game in a New York Bridge club in which Mr. Samuel Fry Jr. was holding the South hand given below:

Neither side vulnerable.
 ♠ A 6 5
 ♦ A Q 9 7
 ♣ A K J 10
 ♠ Q J 10 7
 ♦ K Q 10

TODAY'S POINTER.
While end-plays involving forced leads by opponents are part of the equipment of an accurate Declarer, the defense should be alert to avoid such situations.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:
North—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Constitution, enclosing a two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.
